Privacy Policy

Your privacy is important to us. It is Acme's policy to respect your privacy regarding any information we may collect from you across our website, <https://acme.local>, and other sites we own and operate.

We only ask for personal information when we truly need it to provide a service to you. We collect it by fair and lawful means, with your knowledge and consent. We also let you know why we're collecting it and how it will be used.

We only retain collected information for as long as necessary to provide you with your requested service. What data we store, we'll protect within commercially acceptable means to prevent loss and theft, as well as unauthorised access, disclosure, copying, use or modification.

We don't share any personally identifying information publicly or with third-parties, except when required to by law.

Our website may link to external sites that are not operated by us. Please be aware that we have no control over the content and practices of these sites, and cannot accept responsibility or liability for their respective privacy policies.

You are free to refuse our request for your personal information, with the understanding that we may be unable to provide you with some of your desired services.

Your continued use of our website will be regarded as acceptance of our practices around privacy and personal information. If you have any questions about how we handle user data and personal information, feel free to contact us.

This policy is effective as of 11 August 2019.

GDPR vs. ePrivacy

- The ePrivacy Directive, also known as Directive 2002/58/EC. It was later amended by Directives 2006/24/EC and 2009/136/EC.
- Focuses on electronic communications and involves telephony, Internet and e-mail service providers.
- Acknowledges browser cookies, user-tracking, unsolicited communications and data retention practices.

- The ePrivacy regulation would focus on particular issues.
- Expected to influence OTT and M2M communications, browser cookies and electronic communications for marketing purposes.
- May additionally involve non-personal data.
- The latest draft of the proposal was published on July 26, 2019.
